

CLUB WOMEN HEAR SUGGESTIONS FOR A CITY BEAUTIFUL

Dynamic Force And Vision Needed, Mrs. Hayes Tells Book Club Members.

BAR CARNIVAL, KEEP ALL STREETS CLEAN

Billboards And Signs Over Sidewalks Should Go, Says Woman.

"The education of the public to the value of city betterment depends on the humanity and dynamic force and vision of those engaged in the movement."

This sentiment was expressed by Mrs. Albert Hayes, Garfield ave., in an interesting paper on "Salem—The City Beautiful," read by her at a meeting of the Book club Monday afternoon in which suggestions were made for the improvement of Salem.

Her paper in part follows: "We need the spirit of optimism, that quality which seems to have crystallized in the word 'city beautiful' and to make Salem beautiful at heart and to see to it that our city administration be a credit rather than a disgrace and that every department measures up to the standard of efficiency."

"Then such menaces as the traveling carnival will no longer be tolerated. They represent commercial amusements at their very worst, not merely because of cheapness and vulgarity, but rather because of brazen defiance of civic virtue and moral decency."

Would Bar Carnivals? "Nearly every kind of gambler, wheel and lottery devices are operated at these carnivals. The managers have frequently admitted that they could not make their performances financially successful if they eliminated all gambling schemes and trick devices, that is if the unluckiness of the carnival was left out they would have to close up and disband because of the immorality connected with them. They may be fitly described as traveling dens of iniquity."

"Mothers who at home are models of cleanliness allow their children to drink lemonade made of citric acid stored in unsanitary containers and served from filthy glasses. Some cities have abandoned them all to gether and the time is not far distant when the states will enact laws prohibiting carnivals. Such measures must come and will come when public sentiment has been thoroughly aroused and awakened to the evils done by the traveling shows."

"The spirit of service which animates the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs the Chamber of Commerce and Girl and Boy Scouts as never before will tend to make our city a better place to live."

Bill Board Measure "The Chamber of Commerce might place the weight of its influence against bill boards in the following resolution."

"Resolved that we do hereby recommend and urge that the city officials and property owners do not permit on their own property, nor on (Continued on fourth page.)

HARDING PLEADS FOR SHIP SUBSIDY

President Tells Congress Bill Would Save 25 Millions a Year.

Ships Rotting At Wharves Now Costing Taxpayers $50,000,000.

Washington, Nov. 21.—Franklin D. Roosevelt, president of the United States, today urged Congress to pass a bill providing for a ship subsidy program. President Harding went in person before a joint session of Congress this afternoon and sought by his sheer force of business logic and patriotic appeal to impress upon the nation's lawmakers the urgent need for enacting the Harding-Lasker ship subsidy bill without further delay.

The president indulged in very little rhetorical flag waving although he did say it was the patriotic duty of Congress to provide a strong American merchant marine and he observed that foreign nations "are in complete accord with the opposition here to the pending bill."

But for the most part President Harding laid before Congress a cold, hard, and convincing argument.

He told Congress that the American fleet of ships is now costing the taxpayers of the country $50,000,000 a year and the ships are rotting at their wharves so that ultimately the great cost built at such enormous cost during the war will represent a total loss.

The subsidy provisions of the new bill, he declared, will reduce this annual expenditure by half, in other words, save $25,000,000, and instead of the ships rotting at anchor, they will be carrying American commerce to the four parts of the earth, ultimately becoming self-supporting and finally provide the nation with a strong merchant marine—the dream of years.

"I am not asking your authorization of a new and added draft on the public treasury," the president said. "I am appealing for a program to diminish the burden we are already bearing."

Bill Reported Favorably. "When your executive government knows of public expenditures aggregating $50,000,000 annually, which it believes could be reduced by half through a change of policy, your government would be unworthy of public trust if such a change were not contemplated, nay, if it were not insistent upon it."

Just before President Harding reached the capitol to begin his address, the house merchant marine committee favorably reported the ship subsidy bill to the house, thereby clearing the way for legislative action. The president began speaking at 12:35 p. m.

From every point of view—business, economy, commercial prosperity and national pride, and national defense (Continued on fourth page.)

25 GIVE TESTIMONY IN CAR RIOT CASE

Lisbon, Nov. 21.—The case of Clarence West, on trial in criminal court on an indictment charging him with disarranging a street car appliance, will probably go to the jury this afternoon.

West with several hundred others was at Fifth and Broadway, East Liverpool, May 4, last when a street car being operated under court order was stoned.

In all 25 witnesses were examined Monday and three witnesses, including the defendant, were put on the stand this morning.

West testified that he acted as a traffic officer and entered the street car while the riot was at its height, on order of Chief of Police Hugh McDermott, East Liverpool. The court allowed each side one hour and a half for arguments and these began at 11:30 this morning. The jury is composed of nine men and three women.

Woman, Despondent, Seeks To End Life

Mrs. Charles Feasline, while ill and despondent following the death of her husband one week ago, took a large quantity of iodine a few days ago with suicidal intent, at her home in Hepburn Hollow, near Lisbon, and for several days her life was despaired of. She is now slightly improved and it is thought will recover.

Paris Midinettes Seek Husbands

On the 25th of November of each year Paris midinettes—workers in dressmaking establishments—crowned with the "Bonnet de Sire Carherine," parade the streets in search of husbands. Leap Year day comes once a year in their young lives. All girls who have passed the age of 25 without marriage are eligible to parade, but many twenty or younger take part. When the girls see a good prospect they surround him, hug and kiss him—and sometimes he proposes on the spot.

Red Cross Spent $8,000 In City Last Year -- Carry On Is Appeal

Preparing To Start Big Apple Orchard

Preparations are being made on what is known as the old Mason farm a mile and a half northwest of Lisbon, to set out a big commercial apple orchard next spring.

The farm was recently bought by James Hinch, of Cleveland, a brother of County Commissioner John H. Hinchliffe of Lisbon. Forty acres of the land was plowed and fertilized this fall and planted to wheat and rye so as to have the land in shape for spring tree setting. Additional land is being plowed.

The farm is just west of the George Armstrong apple farm and is said to have the right elevation and air drainage for orchard.

Hunger Striker Collapses At Prison Gates

Friends Make Bed As Woman Falls In Tracks, Then Pray At Her Side.

Dublin, Nov. 21.—Annie MacSwiney, who went on hunger strike at the gates of Mount Joy prison five days ago in protest against the imprisonment of her sister Mary, collapsed today. Broken by starvation and exposure, she fell in her tracks. Friends made a bed for her near the jail gate and covered her with rugs.

She had complained of violent pains in her head, which she said, were getting worse. Friendly women with tender hands bound her head with bandages which they moistened with water.

Inside the prison Mary MacSwiney, who went on 17 days of self-imposed starvation, tossed upon a hospital cot.

A little group of women remained with Annie MacSwiney during the night, bathing her hands and face with hot water and praying at her side.

Groups of strangers gathered at times to look upon this strange and pathetic scene. Some went as they saw the haggard woman, hunger striker totter from her chair or fling herself down upon her matted mattress for a brief respite from her vigil.

A 16-year-old girl was killed while attending a meeting of protest against the continued detention of Mary MacSwiney. Public bodies are demanding an inquiry, claiming that Free State troops fired upon the meeting without any provocation.

Unemployed Threaten To Storm Law Home

London, Nov. 21.—Hostile unemployment demonstrations were threatened today after Premier Andrew Bonar Law for the second time since he succeeded David Lloyd George, refused to receive a deputation from unemployed workers. The leaders threatened to march up 10 Downing street—the premier's official residence.

Knights Of Pythias Plan Basket Picnic

Members of the Knights of Pythias, Pythian Sisters and their families will be eligible to attend an indoor basket picnic to be held at the K. of P. hall Friday night, Dec. 1.

This event was planned at a meeting of the knights Monday night. Further arrangements for the entertainment will be announced later.

British Will Keep Troops In Ireland

London, Nov. 21.—The cabinet has decided that it is impossible to evacuate the British troops from Ireland at the present time, the Daily Mail states today.

When workers in Salem chapter, American Red Cross, started their Roll Call for members Tuesday morning, they backed up their appeal to the public with an array of convincing figures concerning accomplishments in the last year.

The Red Cross works quietly but effectively and very few realized that more than $8,000 was expended in Salem last year to carry on the chapter's great program.

In the Home Service department, including aid for ex-service men and including charity work, a total of $8,000 was spent. Of this amount $3,000 went for actual relief, including groceries, clothing, etc.

Last April the nursing service was started and since that time this branch of the work has cost $1,500. This year the budget is smaller, as the non-employment situation has been relieved and the chapter hopes to turn again to its constructive program, rather than to its relief organization. However it is estimated that $5,500 will be required and if that amount is to be raised the Roll Call must be made larger.

It is up to the people of Salem to say whether they want this great work carried on. Their answer must come in the form of memberships in the Red Cross for their convenience.

The chapter workers have arranged to have memberships received at the Lease drug store, Treat's drug store, MacMillan's book store, Speidel's shoe store and Salem Security Loan association.

Witness Claims Mrs. Gibson Has "Wrong Party"

Man Refutes Part Of Her Story Concerning The Hall-Mills Murder.

Somerville, N. J., Nov. 21.—As the grand jury of Somerset county convened for its second day's investigation of the mysterious murders on Sept. 14 of Dr. Edward Wheeler Hall, rector of St. John's Episcopal church and his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor K. Mills the state was confronted by the unexpected appearance of a hitherto unmentioned witness, whose testimony may prove to be of profound significance in weighing the ultimate value of Mrs. Jane Gibson's testimony the state's star witness.

The new witness, George Sipple, a cattle trader of Middle Bush, N. J., who came to light late yesterday afternoon by a letter written by him to a New Brunswick newspaper, frankly admitted today that he had evidence which would shatter some essential parts of Mrs. Gibson's story. Sipple was reluctant in making any statements but did declare that if anyone is convicted on the strength of Mrs. Gibson's eye witness story, he would feel it his duty to appear before the authorities of his own volition and refute certain essential parts of her testimony, which to his own knowledge are untrue.

Sipple charged that Mrs. Gibson had approached him with the request that he support her in some parts of her testimony. This Sipple declared he had declined to do.

"She had the wrong party," he commented when telling of this alleged move of Mrs. Gibson.

Bottom Of Old Canal Lock Is Discovered

The washing away of the earth and drainage of water from the bottom of an old lock on the Sandy & Beaver canal site, on the McKinley farm near Lisbon, has uncovered the plank bottom of the lock laid prior to 1845, when the lock was erected. The plank is about three inches thick, from 14 to 18 inches wide and are as solid and well preserved as though just recently cut.

There is a series of locks up the valley that are close together, built to let the boats down from the level of Cold Run to the Beaver creek.

Villagers Cut Down Lighting Poles, Company Enters Suit

Washingtonville Mayor And Marshal Named Defendants Restraining Order Sought After Tilt In Which Poles Are Destroyed, Holes Filled Up.

The Ohio Gas & Electric Co., operating largely in the northwestern part of Columbiana county, met with strenuous opposition Monday when employees of the company undertook to set electric light poles along an alley in the village of Washingtonville.

Five poles were set, and as soon as they were in place employees of the village proceeded to cut them down, the poles being destroyed and the holes filled up.

Just before the noon hour, when the company was convinced that the officials of the village were determined to prevent them from constructing an electric light system in the town, a petition was filed by the company with Clerk of Courts Burns, in which the village of Washingtonville, Mayor Frank L. Souffer and Marshal Wilbert Deane are named as defendants, and the common pleas court will be asked to grant an order restraining them from interfering with the company in the construction of a distributing system, or with the workmen in changing or altering poles or overhead equipment. It will also be asked that the court on final hearing make the injunction perpetual.

The Gas & Electric Co., states that on April 3, 1917, the village council of Washingtonville passed an ordinance authorizing it to maintain a light and power system both in Columbiana and Mahoning counties, with the right to construct, maintain and operate with poles, necessary upon all of its alleys, streets and public places. The company states that it accepted the terms of the franchise and filed a bond with the village.

RESPECT WAR HERO BUT WAR ON FOES WITHIN, IS ADVICE

Atty McCarthy Speaks At Celebration Of Veterans' Night.

"While we show our respect toward the heroes of our wars we should work for world peace," was a thought brought out by Attorney H. L. McCarthy, principal speaker at a meeting at G. A. R. hall Monday evening at which Philip Triem camp No. 43 Sons of Veterans and auxiliary were hosts in observing Veterans' night. They entertained members of Trencott post No. 19 G. A. R. with more than 115 in the company.

Attorney McCarthy urged that we study our constitution and that we fit ourselves to be better able to "teach the stranger within our gates." He advanced the idea that while we respect the heroes of our wars it is our duty "to fight against foes that are within, the foes that are striking at the very vitals of our national life."

A tribute to the flag was paid by Mr. McCarthy, who expressed the idea that we should show our appreciation to the veterans of the Civil war because they fought in defense of our flag which has never been enlisted in an unrighteous cause and that we have not been engaged in war for acquisition of territory or political gain.

The speaker pointed to the fact that the work of these veterans meant the very saving of the union, and that the Civil war was not to decide the slavery question alone but also settled the question of the seceding of the south from the north or one state from another.

Some of the veterans told of their war experiences and John Toscher told of some of his experiences in the battle of Gettysburg. Other numbers on the program were:

Piano and violin solo, Glenn Arnold and Ralph Kircher; vocal solos by Mrs. James Briggs; vocal solos and readings by Miss Mary McMurray; recitation, "Lincoln's Gettysburg Address," Neil Grisez. A rabbit supper preceded the program.

CHILDS ADDRESSES NEAR EAST PARLEY

Lansanne, Nov. 21.—Richard Washburn Childs, American ambassador to Italy and one of the three American observers at the Near East peace conference addressed the peace delegates in secret session today explaining the general attitude of the United States on Near East issues.

Although the Americans will exercise considerable moral influence, they will not have a place on any of the committees, nor will they vote upon clauses of the treaty nor sign the pact when it is drawn.

Before the secret session opened Ambassador Childs and Joseph C. Grew, American minister to Switzerland and another member of the American delegation of observers, conferred with Lord Curzon of England and Premier Poincare of France, giving details of America's Near East viewpoints.

Two sessions were held today, both behind closed doors. At both sessions Ismet Pasha, head of the Turkish delegation, urged that it was necessary for the Russian soviet government to participate because of Russia's interest in the future of the Turkish Straits.

CHRISTMAS SEAL SALE IS PLANNED

Dr. T. T. Church, city health commissioner, has been placed in charge of the sale of Christmas seals in Salem and he is preparing to rush the campaign from Dec. 1 to Christmas. He will ask Miss Lewis school nurse to interest the school children in the sale and will seek permission of merchants to have their sales girls sell them or permit other girls to sell them in the stores on Saturdays.

Eighty per cent of the proceeds is kept in Salem for anti-tuberculosis work while 20 per cent goes for state work. This is sufficient incentive, it is believed, for the sale of a great many seals in Salem this year.

ACTION ON CITY WATER PROGRAM URGED BY CLUBS

Kiwanians To Back Council In Action To Start Improvements.

REPORT APPROVED BY ROTARY CLUB

Plan To Repair Basins At Pumping Station Will Be Opposed.

City officials will have the backing of the Kiwanis club in solving the water problem. Notice to that effect was given Monday afternoon when the club voted to back the Chamber of Commerce water report and to get child city council in acting to put that program across.

The club's discussion of the water situation came as a result of activities of its water committee composed of Dr. T. T. Church, H. A. Gager and B. L. Flick. Mr. Gager, a member of the committee, which drafted the Chamber of Commerce report after an exhaustive investigation of local needs, told the club of its findings and the steps necessary to get action.

J. B. Bristol, service director, told the club that he would support any program that meant betterment of conditions but indicated that he favored repairs to the basins near the pumping station unless he could be shown the money with which to carry out the more permanent program.

Dr. Church followed with a recommendation that the club support the permanent program as proposed in his recent report. This provides for the elimination of the present basins in the low, swampy ground, the pumping of water from the wells direct to the consumer and the erection of an upounding basin on the Newgarden hill large enough to care for the city's needs for many years and the first unit in the construction of a surplus supply in later years should such an undertaking be found advisable.

D. U. Smith, city councilman and member of the Kiwanis club, declared that as a city official he was glad to have the backing of the Kiwanis and other organizations and said he believed council would be more willing to proceed if that body were assured he people were behind it.

While the Chamber of Commerce report created a favorable sentiment at the time it was presented, it is known that in that meantime some city officials are inclining to the view that repairs should be made to the present basins owing to the cost of the proposed program. This has met with opposition because of the more or less general sentiment against continuing the use of the basins in a location where contamination is a constant source of danger.

Rotary Approves Report. Dr. Church presented the problem to the Rotary club Tuesday noon and was informed that this club had previously approved the Chamber of Commerce report that a new water system be constructed.

The Rotary club meeting opened with repeating the oath of allegiance to the flag and the singing of The Star Spangled Banner. Walter L. Strain gave a report of the crippled children's committee work, stating that four cases were being cared for. The club authorized the committee to purchase braces for one boy.

President J. S. Alan requested chairmen of all committees to be prepared to give a report of their work at the meeting next Tuesday, when District Governor Theodore E. Smith of Akron will be the guest of the club.

ALL ROAD SIGNS WILL BE UNIFORM

State To Remove Signs On County Roads And Put Up New Signs.

All private signs built within the lines of state highways in Columbiana county must be removed within a short time, or they will be torn down by order of R. M. Buff, superintendent of the state highway corps of workmen, in charge of state highway work, in the county. This order applies to direction and danger signs.

The state is planning to erect standard signs to replace direction and danger signs. County Engineer Lloyd Kirk states, and he will also proceed within a short time to remove all signs now placed along the county roads. "The new state signs will give distances to important points through cities trace the main routes through districts. Auto as well as in the rural agencies maintaining direction and danger signs are co-operating with the state in the move."

It is stated that it is not the intention of the state to remove any signs that are of real value in aiding tourists, but that the new signs will be of a standard type and more easily understood.

The Law's Delays

JUST a few weeks ago we read a splendid article written by one of the judges of the Ohio supreme court. It dealt with the reasons for "the law's delays," and in clear, vigorous verbiage it laid the blame for most of them at the doors of the judges themselves. They, the writer said, could hasten justice if they would, they could deny postponements only meant for selfish advantage, could brush aside more than half of the technicalities thrown into the breaches by astute attorneys and could in the end bring about by swifter trials—and shorter trials, too—a deepened respect for law.

From across the Atlantic, Sir Basil Thompson, former head of Scotland Yard, the criminal-trailing organization which has been made famous in fiction, recently criticized this same delay in punishment. Now he is in America probing the administration of justice. He is learning much, but nothing to persuade him that he was wrong in his criticism. The one factor which cheapens the laws of America today in the eyes of citizens and law-breakers is the ease with which they may be evaded.

We sometimes slur England as far behind us in modernity. Yet English criminal practices really discourage violations, while ours all too often—as witness the prohibition laws—incite them. The truth is England has progressed while we have been content to make a pattern and stick to it. Such is our national reverence for patterns that we hesitate to amend our constitution on the theory that it was too well conceived to ever need amendment. Our constitution is a working document framed over a hundred years ago to meet conditions as far as its framers could foresee them. As conditions change, it should be changed. Not all persons can see this.

Most of them, however, know that our present laws were based on the English common law as evolved in the Magna Charta in the reign of King John. Why, they ask, if it was patterned after English law, is it more of a failure today than in England? Simply because England has changed her laws to meet conditions, whereas we have stood still. In those days the criminal could not testify in his own behalf; punishments were more severe—that is, jail sentences followed even minor offenses. The offender too, could not have counsel. With these handicaps, he would have had short shrift had not the laws protected him. Therefore, his guilt had to be proven "beyond a reasonable doubt" before he could be convicted.

That principle—"beyond a reasonable doubt"—stands as the keystone of our criminal trials today. It is the basic cause for the law's delay. Yet the criminal may now employ counsel or have counsel assigned; may testify in his own behalf—an inestimable boon to the accused; may use any of a hundred subterfuges to escape paying the penalty. In the best opinion of judicial minds, the original double-safeguard as to his guilt should today be tempered to fit changed conditions. The criminal already has too much protection.

When Sir Basil spoke in Cleveland the other day, Federal Judge D. C. Westenhaver declared that the public fundamentally is against the prosecution. With all due respect to a jurist who has sat upon the bench for many years, and with no desire to criticize any court, the viewpoint of the Cleveland judge must be warped from the many disquieting miscarriage of justice which have no doubt come under his observation. They are in favor of enforcement of the laws—when those laws are fair. A few there always will be to exert pressure in behalf of any culprit, but if Judge Westenhaver considers them as against the bulk of the public who want criminals punished, he is not correctly gauging sentiment.

Already there is a vast sentiment of rebellion against the law's delays. Too many lawyers make a mockery of the law, while jurists indifferently "let them get away with it." It is a challenge to the bench.

Read Right, Either Way.

Anatole France, who the other day celebrated his eighty-second birthday, once received a commission for a "serial," and took all the installments of his story to the newspaper office, drew his emoluments and went off on a long holiday. On returning to Paris he turned up the files of the journal to see how his work looked in print, and, to his amazement, discovered that, owing as it was found, to the installments having been wrongly arranged in the editorial pigeon hole, the editor had begun his story at the end and printed the serial backwards. "It made no difference," the editor blandly assured him, when he went to protest. "No one noticed anything wrong."

Effect of Graft From Scalp.

The case of a wounded soldier who had to have frequent haircuts inside his mouth was described recently by Dr. Percival Cole, surgeon of the Seamen's hospital, Greenwich, in a lecture at the Institute of Hygiene, London. He had lost part of the mucous membrane of his mouth, and this was replaced by a graft of skin from his own scalp. It did not give him much trouble, but it grew so many hairs that he had to have haircuts inside his mouth almost as frequently as he shaved.

Why Milkman Was Late.

He was a milkman with a sense of humor. "Why are you so late with our milk this morning?" asked one old lady. "Well, you see, marm," he answered, "it's like this. The law allows us 25,000 bacteria to the gallon, and you wouldn't believe how long it takes to count the little beggars."—London Tit-Bits.

IMMIGRATION IS A PUZZLING SUBJECT

RESTRICTION LAW HAS SEVERAL YEARS TO RUN, BUT FUTURE MUST BE CONSIDERED.

VIEWS OF ECONOMISTS DIFFER

Some Think America Will Soon Have No "Common Laborers" Unless the Southern Europeans Are More Freely Admitted.

By EDWARD B. CLARK

Washington.—The law restricting immigration has about two years yet to run and in the meantime, unless repeal shall come, the incoming number only about a third what they did prior to the passage of the first real restriction law a year or two ago. The fact that the law has a long lease of life has not prevented immigration from being a prime object of discussion in Washington and in other parts of the country.

In New York today and in some of the other big industrial centers they are thinking hard on immigration matters and it can be expected that before long Washington will be urged to make some provision for the future which will allow more immigrants to come into the country than are allowed to enter at the present time. It also can be taken for granted that the attempt to raise the bars will be opposed vigorously by individuals and organizations who want them kept where they are.

The immigration subject has produced a curious division of opinion. Some organizations composed of Americans of long descent, are opposed to restrictions, while there are some other organizations, whose membership is composed to a considerable extent of recent comers to this country, that would like to see things kept as they are today.

Views of the Economists.

Some of the students of economics already have published their findings in this immigration matter. One man has written at great length to prove that eventually the United States will be bankrupt of labor of all kinds unless it adopts a more lenient immigration plan than the one which is in operation today. He asks where the great industrial concerns are to get their manual laborers unless the gates are kept open for the southern European and for the others who are willing to do work of a kind which Americans do not care to do.

Another student of the situation has said that within a few years there will be no serving class in America if the present restrictions on immigration are maintained. He says that when once the foreigner becomes Americanized he refuses to cook and she refuses to make beds.

The ranks of labor were largely influential in securing the passage of the present restrictive immigration laws. There was no hard attempt on the part of the so-called capitalists of industry to prevent the passage of the laws. For a good many months after the close of the war labor was plentiful in the United States and the industrial concerns were not crippled by a lack of what ordinarily are called common day laborers.

This situation, it is said by those who would raise the bars, is likely to change and in the course of four or five years there will be a dearth of ditch diggers and other laborers who are willing to undertake what might be called back-breaking work.

Some Nationalities Not Wanted.

It is known, of course, that if the people of the United States would pick their own immigrants there would be little chance of the passage of harsh restrictive laws. There are certain countries from which we get immigrants who cannot be assimilated and who in many cases are actually a menace to the country's welfare.

It is impossible for the government to say that no immigrants shall be admitted from such and such a country, because if such a restrictive law were passed it would be regarded as an insult to the country restricted and it is no stretch of the imagination to say that such action might result in war.

Of course, the Chinese restriction law is not lost to sight. If China were as powerful a country as Great Britain or France, or any other of the big European nations, the Chinese exclusion law probably never would have been passed. The United States cannot say to a European nation that none of its nationals shall be admitted. Therefore it is that an immigration restriction law must be general in its application.

There are Americans today who still are advocating the complete shutting off of all immigration. There are certain representatives of great industries who say that immigrants are needed. There are foreign elements in the United States who seemingly do not care to become Americanized who desire an increase in immigration in order to strengthen the hyphen in this country. The whole situation is one of puzzle. The lawmakers will not give it specific attention for another year or two, but meantime the economists are hard at a study of the whole proposition.

One of Britain's greatest woman scientists is Dr. Martha Whitley, the joint inventor of the famous S.K. tear gas, which proved one of the most effective weapons of the allies in the World war.

Mme. Gardini will be supported by a cast including Renato Troisi, Leon Recolli, Dorothy Bott, Henri Raff, Kathryn Galli, John Pritchard and others equally well known, besides whom there is a large chorus of fresh young voices and the company's own orchestra under the direction of the eminent French director Maurice Pomey.

SAGE TEA BEAUTIFIES AND DARKENS HAIR

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

MURPHY DECLINES TO CONSIDER BOOM FOR GOVERNORSHIP

A friend of Congressman Murphy in East Palestine has received a letter from the congressman denying that it is his purpose to be a candidate for governor two years hence, but making it plain that he will again seek to return to congress. The main portion of Mr. Murphy's letter is as follows: "It is indeed very pleasing to be mentioned for the position of governor, but I look at the matter now I shall be a candidate for another term in congress. My reasons for this are that I have just reached a place where I can be of some service to my constituents by reason of my committee assignments.

"As you well know, a man must remain in congress several years before he can get on important committees and you also know that he can not do much until he gets on such committees; hence, my desire to have another term.

Daily Suggestions For Games.

NOTE—The News, realizing the importance of directing play activities and especially the mental and physical value of education through play, not only for young people, but adults as well, will publish, in these columns daily a number of games, furnished by the Social Recreation Department of National Community Service. It is suggested that readers clip these articles, and keep for future reference.

GAMES

EXCUSE ME

A question is put to the group as a whole: "Why would you at the meeting last night?" In two minutes each one is to be ready to give his excuse, and the only requirement is that the excuse is to be put in terms of one's own initials and to be preceded by "Because I was."

For example, one guest's initials are "C. F. B." When asked why she was not at the meeting last night, she glibly replied, "Because I was curling father's beard."

RANKS THIRD IN PETROLEUM

Russia's Output in 1921 Amounted to 28,500,000 Barrels, Engineering and Mining Journal Says.

Prior to the outbreak of the war the production of petroleum in Russia amounted to about 20 per cent of the world's production, and, in spite of political and industrial upheaval, the production of soviet Russia still occupies third rank in the countries of the world, says the Engineering and Mining Journal-Press. During the year 1920 the production amounted to 25,400,000 barrels, and in 1921 to 28,500,000 barrels. In the district of Baku the production in 1921 amounted to 155,000,000 pounds (thirty-six pounds), as compared with 215,000,000 pounds in 1919. In the district of Grosny the monthly production during the second half of 1921 amounted to 6,100,000 pounds, and in January, 1922, to 7,100,000 pounds. On account of lack of suitable machinery new workings cannot be made. The equipment in the refineries as well as the pipe lines is in bad condition. According to the regulations of the soviet government, adopted at the beginning of the present year, concerning the grant of mineral oil concessions, 30 per cent of the oil produced is reserved to the state and 45 per cent must be reserved for the home demand. Only 25 per cent can be exported, and all export orders must pass through the official mineral oil office. Payments for export orders are to be effected through the State bank or the oil office, and all payments are to be based on foreign values.

HER ENUNCIATION IN DANGER

Woman Was Beginning to Feel the Strain of Prolonged Conversation With "Foreigners"

The woman was visiting the family on the event of the engagement of the youngest daughter. The family was Bostonian by birth and tradition, but the two eldest girls had married several years before and had left their native city. One of them married a Southerner and the other a Westerner. Each had acquired the accent of her particular locality and the children of the Southern couple had a perfect Southern drawl, while the other sister's children had the broad Western accent.

The effect was startling and the woman could scarcely follow the conversation. It almost seemed that these sisters were from strange countries, each speaking her own tongue. The mother of the three girls was most confused. When she addressed her Southern daughter she unconsciously affected the Southern drawl and when she talked to her Western son-in-law she nearly perfected the Western accent.

In the hall later, as they were leaving, the mother clutched the woman's arm.

"My dear," she breathed, "I'm ruining my enunciation trying to talk to these foreigners."—Chicago Journal.

CITY BEAUTIFUL

(Continued from first page.) or along the highways, on buildings and fences the erection or display of any advertising signs, boards, or bill boards or other devices placed on top or sides of buildings within the city.

"Resolved, that we do also recommend in the interest of safety to the public as well as to improve the appearance of the business district of the city, that all business signs for stores or office buildings, garages, etc., be securely fastened flat against such building and not project or extend above the sidewalk beyond the building line. And that we urge the members of this organization to co-operate in this matter in every way possible to keep this city free from unsightly devices."

Keep Streets Clean

"An agreement made with the storekeepers through the Retail Merchants' association that might result in almost a complete elimination of litter from waste paper. This paper can be packed in grain sacks by the storekeepers, securely tied, and placed on the curb. In the early morning the waste paper dealer can collect it, leaving empty sacks for similar service."

"It should be made imperative that every property owner, especially the business houses shall flush the pavements in front of their respective places every day and employ 'white wings' in the business districts. All other streets should be swept at least once a month."

"We will notice that the best looking and best cared for cities have the most desirable class of citizens."

"Each automobilist is a potential citizen. If the things which meet his eye are uncared for, unattractive homes and business places and untidy streets he sure he will never choose to live there. If on the other hand he sees homes, surrounded by well kept lawns, and pavements—municipal buildings, fine schools, churches, avenues of well cared for trees, parks and playgrounds and a general effect of spotless town he may be on the list before the year is out."

HARDING PLEADS

(Continued from first page.) fence—the president declared it is the duty of congress to enact this bill without further delay.

Three Courses Open

"This problem can no longer be ignored," he said earnestly. "Its solution can no longer be postponed. The failure of congress to act decisively will be no less disastrous than adverse action."

"Three courses of action are possible, and choice among them is no longer to be avoided: "The first is constructive — enact the public bill, under which I firmly believe an American merchant marine may be established."

"The second is obstructive — continue government operation and government losses and discourage private enterprise by government competition under which losses are met by the public treasury, and witness the continued losses and deterioration until the colossal failure ends in sheer exhaustion. "The third is destructive — devolving the sacrifice of our ships abroad, or the scrapping of them at home, the surrender of our aspirations and the confession of our impotence before the world in general and our humiliation before the competing world in particular."

"I come now to urge the constructive alternative, and to reassert an American 'we will.'"

Sandeman's Return From Prison

By ELLA SAUNDERS

(© 1922, Western Newspaper Union.)

Sandeman came out of the penitentiary exactly four years to the day after entering it. He had had one year of his sentence remitted for good conduct.

He had gone in at thirty-six, bluff, jovial, imposing, a financier who had got caught in the meshes of others' wrongdoing and his own carelessness. He came out at forty, bent, stooping, with the peculiar pallor of the prison, and with iron-gray hair.

Sandeman's parents had been farming people in Otsego. His mother still survived; a frail, elderly woman, living in the fine house which Sandeman had built for his bride, who had been one of the Floyds. Old Mrs. Sandeman was an illiterate old lady, and Sandeman had treated her in a sort of contemptuous way—she really was a hard-ship, especially when the Sandemans entertained their friends. But at bottom Sandeman was a good fellow, and he could not leave his mother to live alone.

His wife, proud, haughty, cold, had resisted vehemently, and there had been a good deal of trouble over the old woman; but Sandeman had had his way.

Nancy had never been to see him at the penitentiary; of course a woman of her breeding could not go there. Sandeman had felt it rather deeply, but he had just taken his medicine and said nothing.

Oh, those gruelling years in prison! The torture of the loneliness! The suffering, the sense of failure! Sandeman meant to build up his life again in the West. Of course Nancy would never live in Otsego now. In fact, she had spent nearly all her time with her married sister in Detroit since her husband's conviction.

Sandeman got off the train at Otsego. A group of loafers was waiting for him. They surveyed him with cold sneers. No one was sorry for the rich man who had been brought down. They muttered as he slouched by. Then he remembered, drew himself up, soldier fashion, and passed with dignified mien. They cackled.

Outside the station a motor car was coming down the hill. In it sat Sandeman's old lawyer, Bates, and a warm glow shot through Sandeman's heart at the sight of him. Bates had done more for him than anyone else. He had put up a hard fight for him—he had believed in him.

"Sorry I'm late. Jump in, old man!" said Bates.

On the way up the hill he turned toward him. "Bad news for you Sandeman," he said. "It happened three months ago. I thought it best not to let you know till you were—till you came home. No use worrying you in—where you were."

Sandeman turned a haggard face on him. He knew already by instinct "You mean my—my?"

Bates nodded. "She's gone West to get a divorce," he said.

"Curse her!" said Sandeman.

"She waited till the end. Had a sort of idea it was her duty. Don't take it too hard, old man."

"Hard?" echoed Sandeman. And suddenly all the bitterness of their married life stood revealed in its true colors for the first time. Under the mockery, the shallow pretenses, he realized how his wife and he had all ways hated each other.

"I'm glad, Bates," he said. "By the way, my reception here wasn't exactly—cordial!"

"Oh, these folk," said Bates contemptuously. "I guess it's human nature to knock a man when he's down. You'll come out on top again, old man. All thinking people here know that you were morally blameless. By the way we've been hoping that you'd stay with us a day or two—sort of lonely at your place, I guess."

"No, I'll go home," said Sandeman pronouncing the word with bitter irony. Home! An empty house, the lonely outcast pacing up and down—and yet, he must be alone with his thoughts, to reconstruct his world.

Yes, he was glad Nancy had gone. He hoped he would never see her face again.

But there was no child, there was no one; he was absolutely alone!

"Drop me at my place, old man," he said to Bates.

He got down from the car, watched it whirl away, and went into the deserted house. Well, it was the end of his pilgrimage.

Nothing remained of all he had built up in life but this empty, mocking house.

No! What was this? The old woman, crossing the hall toward him, her arms outstretched.

"My son!"

"Mother!"

He was weeping upon her shoulder, and she was soothing him with her hands, as she had done when he was a child. Something was left after all, then—something that he had not counted on.

Made Very Sure of Death.

A Birmingham (England) man, who recently died and left about $500,000, ordered in his will that his coffin remain unscrewed for at least three days to make sure that he was really dead, and that his jugular vein be severed by a surgeon, then the body cremated, and the ashes disposed of by being sprinkled over or dug into the ground at the crematorium, sprinkled over or dug into his garden. Taking these precautions, the executors should have no shadow of doubt as to the man's death.

ENTRIES IN STOCK SHOW SET RECORD

Individual entries for the International Livestock exposition, to be held in Chicago, Dec. 2 to 9, have exceeded all previous records in the history of the show. Not only will larger classes of cattle, horses and sheep face the judges than ever before, but the quality of the animals will surpass any previous exhibition on the American continent.

Even before the entry books were closed, it was foreseen that the high water mark established by preceding international shows was being topped by the flood of applications which poured in from all parts of the land. When the final count was made it was found that the anticipated increase had materialized beyond all expectations, considerably over 5,000 individual animals having been listed. By the time the entries in the carload classes are closed Nov. 25 it is expected that the total number of cattle, horses, sheep and swine entered in the various competitions will have far exceeded the 10,000 mark.

Thirty-three distinct breeds of live stock will be represented in the 342 regular classes of the exposition and over $100,000 will be distributed among the prize winners, besides the numerous ribbons, cups and other trophies offered as awards. An exhibition of domestic animals, such as never has been assembled before, will greet the visitor to the International Livestock exposition at Chicago Dec. 2 to 9.

WETS START PLANS FOR GREAT BATTLE

St. Louis, Nov. 21.—Plans for a campaign, the ultimate object of which would be repeal of the prohibition amendment, were discussed here today at the first meeting of secretaries of the various state branches of the Association Opposed to the Prohibition Amendment.

The first step, it was explained, will be to have the law amended so it will be more liberal and at the same time conform to the eighteenth amendment.

W. H. Stayton of Baltimore, general adviser of the association, expressed the personal opinion that the first procedure should be to amend the law so parties would have power to determine what is and what is not an intoxicating beverage. Mr. Stayton is head of a steamship line.

"Ultimately, of course, we seek the repeal of the eighteenth amendment," Mr. Stayton said.

Mr. Stayton explained that active

BASKETBALL FIVES GETTING IN SHAPE

Aspirants for the boys' basketball team of Salem High school have already begun practice for the coming season. The boys have a good reason to work hard at their first tryout as Coach Vivian has eight of the finest basketball suits the squad has ever had. The suit consists of a pair of dark maroon pants, white V neck shirts with a Maroon "S" on the front, and maroon socks with blue bands.

Coach Vivian will start the inter-class schedule next Monday and the games will extend to Christmas. The prospects this year are better than they have been for the last two years. The squad will miss Siskowic and Pierce but with the remaining members of last year's team, Shinn, Houser, Roessler, Yengling, McKeown and possibly Enriken, Coach Vivian fears no trouble in making a crack five this year.

The girls' team will be equally as strong as the boys this year. About 40 girls have turned out at each practice and the prospects look as good if not better than the boys. Coach Vivian has a large number of last year's players on the girls' team. Harris, Tolerton, Whinnery, Williams and Cosgrove will probably start the season.

The first game will be with the ex-Highs Dec. 29.

Would Curb Diphtheria By The Use Of Toxin-Antitoxin

BY DR. FRANK G. BOUDREAU
State Department of Health

Last year there were more deaths from diphtheria than in any previous year since 1913. In the year the rate was 21 deaths per 100,000 people in the state. Last year the rate was 18; the year before, 11. The rate of 18 last year represented 1075 deaths, more than twice as many deaths as were caused by typhoid fever. What caused this rise in the rate? It was not lack of adequate local health organization, nor carelessness of health departments. The increase in the number of deaths was due principally to something that up to that time was beyond our control—the increase in the susceptible population, which appears to be responsible for the periodic increase in the number of cases and deaths.

In other words, the weapons at our disposal, while sufficient to keep diphtheria under fairly good control in normal years, fail to give even that moderate amount of control in such years as 1921, when presumably the disease spreads widely because of the increase in its fuel, the susceptible population.

Fortunately, new weapons have been placed at our disposal by the work of such men as W. H. Park, Von Behring and Schick. By means of the Schick test we can separate the susceptible from the immune. By means of toxin-antitoxin mixture we can permanently immunize those who are susceptible.

In other words, in toxin-antitoxin we now have a weapon with which we can control diphtheria even during its bad years. To be effective the weapon must be used during normal years. By means of this weapon we can assure a decrease instead of an increase in the susceptible population.

While the death rate in New York state was going up, it went down in New York city, where toxin-antitoxin was given to thousands of school children.

A large majority of those who are susceptible to diphtheria are between the six months and six years of age. Every child between those ages should be immunized by three injections of toxin-antitoxin mixture. If that had been done before 1921, there would have been less than 250 deaths from diphtheria that year instead of 1075.

The fact that toxin-antitoxin is available should not cause us to discount the value of present methods, nor should we relax ordinary precautions. These include calling a physician as soon as our children develop sore throats, giving plenty of antitoxin to every child whom the physician suspects of having diphtheria, reporting the case immediately to the health commissioner, tracing the source of disease, and giving antitoxin to those who have come in contact with the disease.

Only by the free use of toxin-antitoxin, however, will the periodic increase in the number of cases and deaths be prevented.

As October and November are the months during which the largest number of cases and deaths from diphtheria occur, the greatest precaution should be used at this time. Sore throat and croup demand immediate attention.

Merciless Neuritis

Imps of Hades armed with red-hot pitchforks could scarcely inflict more cruel, agonizing torture than that endured by many sufferers from neuritis. The sharp stabbing pains caused by this disease are usually centered about the shoulder, neck, forearm, small of the back or along the thigh and leg in the region of the sciatic nerve. Sometimes they move from one part to another, sending out lightning jabs which produce untold misery.

If you want prompt relief, apply Tysmol over the part that hurts, and the pain should disappear.

Tysmol is absorbed through the pores of the skin and has a soothing, healing effect upon the inflamed, diseased nerves. Contains no "dope." Guaranteed harmless. Price $1 at The J. H. Lease Drug Co., Tysmol Company, Mfg. Chemists, 400 Sutter st., San Francisco.

POLITICIANS BACK TO EARTH

New Theories Being Formed as to Why Certain Candidates Lost Out and Why Others Elected Did Not Run So Well—Price to Answer Suit
Filed at Toledo Attacking the Fuel
Act—State Affairs.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—John Barleycorn may be dead, and probably is in Ohio, but it cost his friends a nice whet of coin to become positive of that fact, according to the expense account filed with Secretary of State Smith.

Frederick W. Marcolin, secretary of the organization, filed a sworn statement that he handled $15,337.75, and his list of contributors shows the entire amount was raised by small subscriptions, in no instance exceeding $100. Added to this is the sworn statement of the Toledo branch of the association showing expenditure of $7,475.

The scrap between Edwin H. Moore of Youngstown and A. V. Donahey, which, according to many politicians cost Donahey a number of votes and made him generally a little leary of the governor-elect, did not completely drive Moore out of the party, even if it did make him suik in his tent while the battle was raging, according to expense accounts filed from Mahoning county.

Politicians generally are just beginning to settle down to earth after election and new theories are being formed every day as to why certain candidates were defeated and why other elected did not run so well.

Of course the emergency clause of the reorganization bill is urged as the chief reason for the defeat of Judge Hough, but Republicans will not admit this, and casting about for another logical reason are beginning to blame it on the women and, strange to say, on the women of their own party, who at first they so loudly praised for the defeat of Pomerene.

They now assert that Republican women generally voted for either Judge Hough or Judge Day, and cast their second vote for Florence Allen, that many of Day's friends in Cincinnati single shotted him, and that Democratic women gave Judge Allen a heavy enough vote to overcome Hough.

Another cause has been added to the multitude of reasons for the defeat of Pomerene, and it begins to appear that before politicians are through dishing it out that enough reasons will be advanced to have caused his defeat even if each reason had cost him but a handful of votes. The latest reason to be added to the dry vote, the labor vote, the women's vote and the vote of disgruntled Democrats, who thought he was too close to Harding, is the vote of those who feared he might be appointed to the supreme bench in case of his election. Politicians assert that the rumor he might be appointed to succeed Judge Day led many to believe he was more a Republican than Democrat and voted against him on that account.

The total returns indicate a lot of voting that politicians are unable to explain and causes them to wonder just what the average voter means when he casts his ballot. For instance, they repudiated wine and beer and defeated Thompson, who had the endorsement of the Anti-Saloon league, and elected C. C. Crabbe attorney general, who was actively supported by the league, and almost elected William H. Chatfield, the only Republican whom the league opposed.

Cleveland, or rather Cuyahoga county, went heavily wet, yet sent to the legislature 11 representatives who are as dry as Cromwell's powder, at the same time giving Stephen Young, whom the league fought bitterly, a handsome vote for attorney general.

Further evidence of the loyal support given Judge Allen is seen in the large number of women who contributed to her campaign fund. Her expense account filed with Secretary of State Smith shows she received $5,367.44 and spent $5,714.77, leaving a deficit of $347.33, while Judge Day of Canton, elected with Judge Allen, spent only $1,203.15.

Reports filed by various candidates indicate that it costs more to run for office in a county than it does in the state, even if many times the number of voters must be won over and much more territory covered in a state campaign. An instance of this is seen in the reports filed by Stephen Young, defeated candidate for attorney general, and William H. Chatfield, defeated for lieutenant governor, who reported expenditures of $911 and $466, respectively, while candidates for county offices in many of the larger counties spent between $2,000 and $3,000.

Despite the fact that Cleveland coal dealers are given the largest margin of profit of any dealers in the state, Cleveland was the first city in the state to enter a protest against the recent edict of Fuel Administrator Neal fixing a maximum profit on coal. Cleveland dealers were allowed a profit of $2.75 a ton, but claim it is impossible for them to handle coal at that rate, and filed suit in the supreme court asking that the edict be declared void.

Commenting on the complaint of the dealers, it is said an audit of the books of the dealers fails to substantiate their claim of a loss at the rate allowed.

Meantime Attorney General John F. Price announces he has prepared an answer to the suit filed recently in the district court at Toledo by the Ohio Collieries company and the George M. Jones Coal company, attacking the constitutionality of the law authorizing the appointment of a fuel administrator and his authority to fix a minimum selling price for coal or a maximum profit on coal sold at retail.

The reply denies that the appointment of the administrator or edicts issued by him are in conflict with the state or federal constitution, and further denies the administrator contemplates the seizure of coal mines, as is charged in the petition filed by the collieries company.

Price avers that blanks were sent to defendants and other coal companies with the request that they fill them out in order to assist the administrator in fixing a fair price and denies that they were threatened with prosecution for failure to comply with the request of the fuel administrator. He asserts no complaint was filed by them with the fuel administrator, and that they failed to avail themselves of any of the methods prescribed by law to obtain a hearing on their complaints.

The attempt to obtain passage of national light wines and beer legislation by providing a tax upon the beverages to pay a soldiers' bonus was flayed by C. L. Darlington of Xenia, former state commander of the Ohio American Legion.

"The ex-service men will never consent to having the light wines and beer controversy mixed up with the soldier bonus," Darlington declared. "The bonus will stand or fall upon its own merits."

Darlington is one of the first prominent Ohio legionnaires to take a definite stand against the proposal. A great many legion members and officials have expressed the belief that their organization should neither oppose or approve the idea, taking the stand that methods of financing the bonus are entirely the responsibility of the national legislature.

One method proposed as a means of legalizing sale of beverages containing a small percentage of alcohol is an amendment to the Volstead act re-defining intoxicating liquor, now termed anything containing over one-half of 1 per cent of alcohol. Another proposal is that enforcement of the eighteenth amendment be left entirely up to the separate states, with each having its own enforcement act and its own definition of what constitutes an intoxicant.

Water furnished by the filtration plants of Ohio cities must be entirely free from sewage contamination. Filtration plant engineers and superintendents of Ohio, meeting in Columbus this week, unanimously approved standards of the bureau of public health service, which require water for domestic use must be 100 per cent pure.

Methods of removing excess quantities of iron from water supplies were discussed, aeration and filtration being decided upon as the best. The principal iron removing plants in the state are located at Shelby, Wadsworth, Xenia, Waverly and Harborton, it developed.

Health department officials are particularly gratified at the stand for complete purification taken by the engineers. A number of Ohio filtration plants now operating in Ohio are producing water below standard. It was said, but with the foremost filtration plant engineers back of the movement for betterment it is believed no difficulty will be experienced in getting every municipality to find the remedy. Of the 50 filtration plants in Ohio 20 are below standard, according to W. E. Ditto, sanitary engineer of the state health department.

An appropriation to provide additional equipment and books for Ohio State university library will probably be asked of the state legislature at its next session. As a result of insufficient funds the library has fallen far below the standards necessary for so large a school, a committee from the alumni association has reported to the board of trustees following a thorough investigation. The committee also recommended the library staff be increased and salaries be raised.

The need of co-operating with the state division of securities, banks building and loan companies and legitimate business houses in a campaign to make the operation of questionable stock selling promoters more difficult was emphasized at a meeting of the Ohio Association of Better Business Commission Managers in Columbus this week. The organization went on record as in favor of strengthening Ohio blue sky laws. Among the speakers were representatives of Toledo, Cleveland, Columbus, Akron and Lima better business commissions.

DIOGENES OUT OF A JOB

DIOGENES, the Greek cynic and philosopher, was a successful advertiser. He lived in a barrel to advertise himself. At high noon he was wont to light his lantern and stroll about the streets of Athens. "In search," he said, "of an honest man." In this way he advertised one of the prevailing failings of the classic Greeks. For among the ancients, the most successful merchant was the biggest skinflint. The cleverest buyer was the loudest haggler.

There's no room for a cynic in modern advertising. Advertising, today, calls attention to the open-faced honesty of business. It has standardized almost every article you can buy. You know what to expect and what to pay. You don't have to dicker, bargain and haggle to know that you are getting as good as you give.

That's why it pays to read advertisements and buy advertised goods. A product's advertising is the best guarantee of its faithful performance, its lasting usefulness or its definite quality.

If you value constant satisfaction—if you want to get your full money's worth every time—read the advertisements.

To take advantage of an advertisement is to get full value.

BOOMS STARTED BY POLITICIANS

Busy Selecting Members of Donahay's Official Family.

GOVERNOR-ELECT STILL MUM

Speakership and Minority Leaderships Engaging the Attention of Newly-elected Solons — Filtration and Water Softening Discussed at Columbus Convention—Price Delay Calling of Traffic Conference.

Columbus, Nov. 21.—With the election but little more than a week gone and inauguration nearly two months off, seeking appointments and speculating on who the appointments will go to seem to be the chief out-door sports in Columbus.

With Thomas Gault practically agreed on as director of agriculture by the politicians only, for Donahay is not known to have discussed appointments, the Democrats now have turned their attention to the pre-inaugural appointment of a state director of welfare, to succeed Dr. Howard S. MacKay, and indications are that many will be appointed by politicians before Donahay finally hands the reins over to the successor of MacKay.

Cleveland, which last week started a boom for Cyrus Locher for private secretary, and which seems to have gotten in the habit of wanting all the good jobs, this week launched a boom for Dr. R. H. Bishop, one-time candidate for mayor of Cleveland, against Governor Davis, and for years city health director, to which job he was appointed under the Davis administration.

There is an off chance, however, that Cleveland will land neither, as Locher is said to be loath to leave his law practice, and many political leaders think the private secretary should be a newspaper man, and Bishop is sure to have competition for the welfare job.

Donahay is said to be more than friendly to Locher, but politicians insist on a newspaper man for the job. They say Donahay, as state auditor, got more publicity than any other state official and anticipate that he will be just as good with copy as governor, but insist the copy should be edited by a good newspaper man before it gets into the hands of the newspaper editors.

Friends of Thomas Duffy, who was defeated by Donahay for the nomination for governor, are strong for him as the new director of industrial relations, and the friendliest feeling is said to exist between Donahay and Duffy, despite their rivalry of a few months ago.

Duffy took off his coat for Donahay in the campaign and doubtless held in line a large number of voters who might have fallen away after the Donahay-Ed Moore scrap broke. Duffy, however, still has four years to serve as a member of the industrial commission, while there is a chance that Donahay may be defeated in two years, which would cut Duffy off the payroll two years sooner than if he stuck on his present job, so that it would not be at all surprising for Duffy to turn down the chief job even if it is offered him, and be content to let some other fellow boss the job.

The speakership and minority leaderships also are bones to fight for and already candidates are springing up. While the law makes the lieutenant governor, in this instance a Democrat, Earl D. Bloom, speaker of the senate, where he will have but four Democrats to lead, the speakership of the house will go to a Republican, as that body elects its own speaker and is Republican by a vote of 102 to 28.

Among the Republicans returned to the lower house and who are mentioned as candidates for the speakership are Robert C. Dunn, Wood county; A. C. Robinson, Lawrence county; and Harry D. Silver of Preble county. H. S. Atkinson, Columbus, who nobly led his 11 Democratic colleagues in the house last year, doubtless will have the opportunity to again lead the minority and will find his forces more than doubled this year, having 27 men to lead instead of 11.

George E. Kryder of Henry county is said to have the inside track for the speakership pro tem and the Republican floor leadership in the senate.

With the political personnel of both house and senate unchanged it is not considered probable that there will be any changes in the various appointive offices of either body, although there is said to be a possibility of former Lieutenant Governor Clarence Brown, who was defeated by Thad Brown for the Republican nomination for secretary of state, may endeavor to get W. E. Haley's job as clerk of the senate.

The prosecution of the fight of the state agricultural department against tuberculosis in cattle, which had to be dropped last summer for lack of funds, again is engaging the attention of the department and again the trouble is lack of funds, according to L.

J. Taber, head of the department. In a statement issued by Taber he asserted the department will need an appropriation of $250,000 for this work, if the vigorous policy now in force is to be continued. Calling attention to the helpful effect the fight has had on the cattle of the state, Taber said: "With that amount it will be possible to eradicate bovine tuberculosis from Ohio within a reasonable period of years. While Ohio ranks near the head of the list in wealth, it stands toward the foot of the list in the amount of money appropriated for tuberculosis eradication. If co-operative work with the federal department is to continue, if we are to take care of our present number of accredited herds, and test new territory, very much larger appropriations will be needed."

According to the recent report of the division of animal industry, there has been a marked development in the work of eradication of animal tuberculosis. The report shows that on Nov. 1, 1922, there were 1,050 accredited herds in Ohio, numbering 17,772 head of cattle, while in July, 1921, there were but 439 herds with a total of 8,357 head of cattle. During July of this year, according to Taber, 55,900 head were tested, which, he says, is twice as many as were tested in any previous year.

Look out for the bunko man and fake stock salesman with the proposition that promises get-rich-quick dividends with no actual proof of stability, is the warning that is being sent out over the state by chambers of commerce, the members of which anticipate a raid of such wild cat stock promoters soon.

The reason is the fact that war savings stamps mature Jan. 1 and that a large number of liberty loan bonds are being called in by the treasury department, which will throw a large amount of money into the state, largely in the hands of small investors, who are without business experience and have but little immediate use for their money.

Much of the money invested in stamps and bonds was accumulated by working people, who had a few dollars a week held out of their pay. They never missed the money and now the return of several hundred dollars of "easy money," bankers and business men generally fear will induce them to take a long chance, which will open a virgin field to the fake stock salesman and speculator.

The tip being sent out is: "If you don't reinvest your money with the government, and desire to invest in other securities, you should consult your banker, building and loan man or a legitimate investment house. You place your money with these people for protection. You should also go to them for advice on financial matters."

Filtration plant superintendents of 40 Ohio towns and cities are gathered in Columbus this week to discuss filtration and water softening with engineers of the state board of health, despite the fact that there is comparatively little water in Ohio just now to filter or soften, and most of them are willing to accept water in nearly any form. This condition they say makes it necessary to take every precaution to prevent an epidemic of typhoid and other diseases.

At the conference last year, which incidentally was the first water purification conference involving all the large cities of a state ever held in the country, eight questions pertaining to purification and three questions relating to water softening were assigned to superintendents of various cities for special research and attention and these questions are to be reported on and discussed at this conference.

Cincinnati, Cleveland, Akron, Iron-on, Lima, Portsmouth, Sandusky, Steubenville, Warren and Toledo, which have special purification systems and are well adapted for research work along that line, were designated as the plants to give attention to that feature, while Columbus, Delaware and Youngstown, which cities have been up against a hard water proposition, are to report on the result of research in their plants.

Friday will be given over to the discussion of problem that have been faced by plant superintendents during the year and Saturday will be devoted to the discussion of observations made by state engineers in their inspection trips over the state.

Attorney General John G. Price is taking no chance on going off half-cocked on the suggestion made last week by Governor Davis that a conference of city solicitors be called to discuss plans for uniformity of traffic rules in towns and cities of Ohio with the view to reducing the number of automobile accidents that have taken many lives in Ohio this summer.

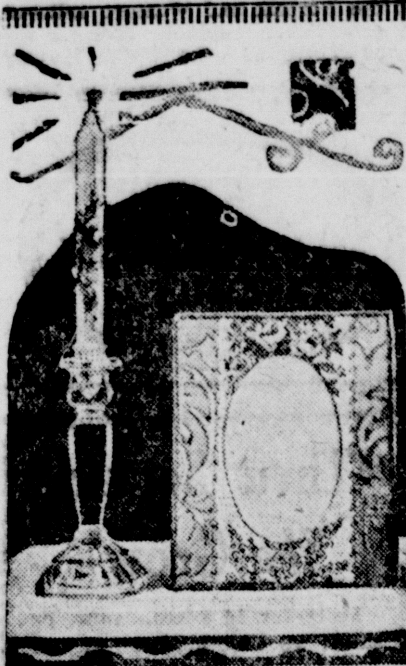

Price said he has not called the conference, as suggested by the governor, because he wants the proposal to sink in and give the solicitors of the various cities an opportunity to evolve some plans to be presented to the conference.

"The question confronting us requires looking into before we attempt to act," said Price. "We want to know what we can do and how we can best proceed, first of all. That is why this department is investigating the situation now."

"Solicitors in the various cities, no doubt, have proposals to submit. These largely will relate to their own situation, however, and we wish to have a general outline, a program which will cover all, before we proceed."

Explains How Enlarged Veins Can Be Reduced

Often Times Veins Burst and Cause Much Suffering, Expense and Loss of Employment

Many people have become despondent because they have been led to believe that there is no remedy that will reduce swollen veins and bunches.

If you will get a two-ounce original bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) at any first class drug store and apply it night and morning as directed you will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.

SCHOOLS IN OHIO BOOSTING SALE OF CHRISTMAS SEALS

Columbus, Nov. 21 — "Schools of Ohio are deeply interested in the sale of Christmas Seals because it is one of the best means ever devised for interesting the public in health education," says Vernon M. Riegel, state director of education, in a communication sent to county superintendents and teachers.

"During the past year," says Mr. Riegel, "the Ohio Public Health association, the agency in this state through which the Christmas Seals are sold, has rendered a very great service in preparing for the schools a course in hygiene furnishing scales and assisting in the establishment of health education in many of the rural schools of the state, local organizations, also supported by the sale of these seals, have helped by establishing hot lunches, in looking after undernourished children and in other ways.

"Because of the educational value of the seal sale to the community and the service rendered by the funds raised from the sale we urge you to give to the Christmas Seal sale in your community your best efforts! The seals are to be sold from Thanksgiving day until Christmas."

E. A. REED

President - Bell Telephone Co.
Heads Christmas Seal Committee

Mr. Reed Says:

WE are about to enter upon another nation-wide campaign which will bring before all the people the importance of health conservation, with particular reference to the subject of tuberculosis prevention.

The reappearance of the Christmas Seals for the fifteenth season is a reminder of the wonderful progress which has been made in our state and in the nation in decreasing the ravages of tuberculosis, and also of the problem which still confronts us.

It is estimated that if tuberculosis were eliminated as a cause of death, two and one-half years would be added to the life of each individual in the country. Capitalizing each individual life in a population of 100,000,000 at $100 per year, the net saving would be at least $25,000,000,000. The economic loss due to tuberculosis is one that should appeal to a business nation.

There is no work in which we are engaged that is so useful as that of protecting the health of our boys and girls. Funds raised through the annual sale of Christmas Seals are being used for preventive work among children. It is a noble and a necessary measure of self-protection in which every one can have a part, and from which every individual derives some benefit.

Ohio has 30,000,000 seals to sell from Thanksgiving to Christmas, and every penny that is given in exchange for a Christmas Seal will be put to work in carrying on the crusade against the white plague and promoting good health.

46 Hours Work To Acre Average For Corn Labor

Coming to the end of a crop labor inquiry embracing 321 farms in the Ohio, extension economists at the Ohio State university find, first of all, wide differences in crop labor requirements of these regions.

They find that it takes the southeastern Ohio hill farmer the equivalent of two solid days and nights of man labor to raise an acre of corn, and that hill farmers in northeastern Ohio put in about 10 hours more work than that. The precise figure for Trumbull county is 57.2 man-hours.

Farmers in the central north of the state put, on the average, something more than 10 hours less work a season on each acre of corn than is the case in the southeast, and about 20 hours less work than in the northeast. The figure for Seneca county, taken to represent this north central region, is 38.5 hours. For Mercer county, considered as representative of the prairie land to the west, the figure is 41.3 hours.

Differences of this sort are to be expected between hill and flat land farms, comments R. F. Taber, one of the economists making the survey. Rather an unexpected difference, however, lies in the greater number of times that some farmers with a relatively low labor expenditure succeed in getting over their land. They have larger fields and use larger implements, Mr. Taber explains. Analysis of such efficiency factors, and standard tables on "a good day's work" will soon be made public.
